Starting Sunday 06 April 2025, the standard time zone for Canberra, Melbourne, Sydney, and surrounding areas will change from AEDT (Australian Eastern Daylight Time, UTC+11) to AEST (Australian Eastern Standard Time, UTC+10) as the summer season and the Daylight Saving Time (DST) period has officially ended.

This change will impact your experience with our services, especially those living outside the states of ACT, NSW, and VIC, Australia. Indonesian users should note that the Melbourne time zone will soon become 3 hours (formerly 4 hours) earlier from the standard western (WIB) time zone from this date onwards to 05 October 2025, where the next DST period should officially start in Australia.
